RE: Letter of Reference — Andy Diaz Gomez

To Whom It May Concern,

Andy joins our company as a Billing Specialist who has very little knowledge about medical billing operations the rest has been a story of success. His entire set of skills comes from working in our company without any training outside the organization, finally becoming a mature worker with a deep and broad understanding of medical billing operations. Currently, he confidently and accurately executes even our most challenging assignments without any hesitation.

One of the main areas where he made great impact is VOB (Verification of Benefits) and COB (Coordination of Benefits) processes. As everyone who has ever worked in healthcare billing would know, these are quite challenging aspects, as you need razor, sharp focus, a thorough understanding of insurance policies and skills to handle intricate payer relationships. Andy is responsible for the claim appeals process and regularly comes up with appeals that are not only well, supported by documents but also persuasive in maintaining our quality levels and safeguarding our revenue cycle. His skill in spotting billing errors, drafting strong appeal letters and making sure that the problems are solved has greatly contributed to our financial success.

Besides his technical skills, Andy also shows a very strong desire to stay committed to HIPAA compliance and also pay attention to the correct ethical handling of very sensitive patient and payer information. Above all his technical skills, it is his personality that really sets Andy apart. Without being asked, he is a self, starter who not only takes the initiative but also, when he faces a problem, goes straight for finding a solution. Besides that, he always sets the highest standard of professionalism for himself. He works well with his teammates, he has good communication skills and is always clear and polite, and lastly, he has that positive and enthusiastic attitude that you can find in him everywhere that he does work.

Without a doubt, I believe that Andy will be motivated, reliable, and also very dedicated to perfection in any position or project he decides to tackle. I fully support him and therefore, I recommend him as one of the highest standards, if you wish to reach out to me personally, I will be happy to talk to you about his skills and qualifications.

Sincerely,

Gedale Fenster
